Why PMP?

No matter what services or products a business offers, its projects must be efficiently developed and delivered on time and within budget. Individuals who can cost effectively shepherd a project from inception to completion are in great demand in today's workplace. So we can answer the WHY question by the followings:

1. PMP certificate possesses project management knowledge, experience and the skills to lead the project team and bring the project to successful completion.
 2. Who hold the PMP credential are well positioned to provide the professional skills necessary to lead project teams & achieve successful project results.

3. The strength of PMP certificate that it is portable and not tied to any single method, standard or organization.
 4. Resources are scarce, deadlines are short & budgets have been never tighter. In this environment successful management of a project from beginning to end is difficult. It requires careful planning and the application of insightful strategies and cutting-edge concepts.
 5. Project Management Professional (PMP) Certification training will give you the skills and confidence to bring new products and services to market on time and on budget.
 6. Project Management Professional (PMP) Certification will make you a more valued contributor to your organization and help your career advance.
 7. PMP certificate reflects best practices in the discipline of project management in the whole world, not anyone standard or industry.
 8. Open doors to new clients, while having a certification from the PMI, or other type of project management certification often makes the difference in whether or not a prospective client is willing to meet with you.
 9. Offers international recognition since PMP credentials recognized in 183 countries.
 10. PMP credential will give you extra credibility when dealing with clients.
